

Please do not allow the Consumer's Bankers Association to challenge Indiana's telephone privacy act. Phone solicitations are an incredible invasion of privacy. If I want to talk to my bank, credit card company, or any other institution that I do business with, I will call them during business hours at my convenience. They are free to send me mail that I will gladly read at my convenience.

I am sending this in response to an e-mail. If the e-mail is a hoax, then I apologize for the confusion.
